

Hello

Well, just like that winter showed up!

We had a fun fly planned but it was a little more cold and snowy than we were ready for. But then after it was all said and done it was not too bad out. We will be getting together on Saturday for the meetings for the next few months. Last meeting we voted on doing Saturday meetings because we feel we have more time to visit and fly and then no one is driving on slick roads in the dark. I'm also up for having some work Saturdays to work on planes or bring your project if you need help. If you have an idea for a workshop let me know. I think this will be a great way to get through the winter.

Last meeting I also mentioned getting a bigger table so we have more room to sit and visit. Well, boom just like that I found one and it is in the clubhouse. Thanks to your current member of the year, he bought it and I hauled it. Thanks also to some members that were out at the field that helped me unload it and set it up. It was heavy. We put the other tables in the shed for the winter, but this really gives us some more room in the clubhouse. I also replaced the lights in the clubhouse with some 8 ft led lamps that really brighten it up. There was some talk of getting a windsock over by the Quonset shed so I put one on a pole over there and ordered a larger one for the other pole. So now we have socks everywhere. Dan also got a little yellow cub weather vein that I put up.

I think we are set pretty good for winter, just a friendly reminder to make sure the heat is off when you leave the clubhouse.

I wanted to also touch base on leaving planes at the clubhouse. We do not have a lot of room for storage and we have a lot of donations show up. So just be aware if you leave it there make sure you have a note on it and if it is a donation do the same. We can't be responsible if it gets damaged or lost.

If you have nominations for member of the year I want to know and also think about officer elections coming up at the December meeting.

Looking forward to some Saturday get togethers, see you soon!

Larry's Log

I recently received an email from the FAA stating its time to renew my Small UAS Certificate of Registration. They couldn't have made it easier. Just go to the provided website and follow the instructions. You need to login with your user's name and password. Be sure to register as a recreational hobbyist. You are required to take the recreational UAS safety test (TRUST). I selected the AMA written test. Never fear, you can correct any wrong answers. Also, there is a section to register your airplanes. You need to identify at least one plane. The cost is $5 to renew for another 3-years. After completion, you get a new Registration Certificate and a test certificate. Remember, the flying field is a designated FAA site that does not require FAA submitted flight plans.

Please get a FAA certificate, because it lets the FAA know the number of the recreational hobbyists and hopefully protects our "exception for limited recreational operations of unmanned aircraft". For more information visit faa.gov/uas.

Keep on flyin,

Larry

Arizona Bound

I will be flying to Arizona this Friday for 10 days. Keith and I will attend a scale meet in Glendale on Saturday. I'll be taking lots of pictures and enjoying 75-80 degree weather.

Chuck Curtis.
